

F1 returns with changes

The new formula 1 season is about to start with a few changes . Now I'm going to list some of the changes there is going to be a lot more teams.

Teams have new drivers, Jenson Button has gone to McLaren to join Lewis Hamilton .

2010-11 season has been changed for the better they hope. This season is going to be different to last season. The first race is in Bahrain with more cars than ever this will be the first track that 26 cars have driven on!

There is only one pit stop in the race so they acutely fill the car up properly to last as long as possible. Last season there were technical regulations to make the cars underweight so that is why they brought out the rule of refuelling. The tyres are 20mm smaller at the front to improve the balance on the cars because of the refuelling ban.

By George and Lewis